Visiting Hours and Information

Visiting Hours

Memorial Hermann believes strongly in including patients' loved ones in the healing process. When friends, family members and caregivers work together, patients often experience a higher level of safe, quality care that leads to a faster recovery process and a shorter hospital stay.

Visitors are designated by the patient and may include, but are not limited to, a spouse, a domestic partner (including same-sex domestic partner), another family member, or a friend, and the patient has a right to withdraw or deny such consent at any time.

Memorial Hermann will not restrict, limit, or otherwise deny visitation privileges on the basis of age, race, ethnicity, color, national origin, religion, culture, language, physical or mental disability, socioeconomic status, sex, sexual orientation, and gender identity or expression. Your religious counsel or may visit at any time.

While each unit may have specific visitation guidelines appropriate for its level of care, hospital visitation guidelines are as follows:

- In order to provide an optimum healing environment for our patients, hospital visiting hours are from 5:30 a.m. - 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. - 9 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and are further limited in some areas such as critical care units and maternity. After hours, visitors must enter through the Emergency Department entrance and check in with Security, located in the Emergency Department lobby.
- For the safety of our patients, no sick visitors are allowed at any time.
- Children under the age of 16 are not permitted in patient care areas, waiting rooms or lobbies without adult supervision.
- Only one adult visitor may spend the night in a general patient room, and children under the age of 18 are not permitted to stay overnight.

Visiting guidelines may be changed due to community health and safety needs.

Primary Support

Primary support is defined as the individual(s) who normally provide the patient with physical, psychological or emotional support. A primary support is assigned by the patient, parent or surrogate decision maker, and is usually a relative, but may also be a close friend, neighbor or clergy member. These individuals are different than a visitor and can be here 24 hours a day, even outside of visiting hours, as they are designated to provide support to the patient as well as the health care team throughout the patient's stay. Primary supports will be issued identification, which must be worn at all times. For more information regarding primary supports, please ask your nurse.

Family Spokesperson

Protecting the health and privacy of our patients is important to us and required by law. Memorial Hermann may communicate information regarding your care to a spokesperson designated by you. A technician is an individual who provides direct patient care with or without direct supervision of a licensed professional. The technician's primary role is to assist medical staff to complete assigned tasks and accommodate patient needs.

Discharge

When it is time for you to leave the hospital, your attending physician will write discharge orders. It is our goal for your discharge process to be complete as early as possible. Before you leave, your nurse will talk with you about follow-up care, including medications, diet, and how to care for yourself at home. If you have questions or concerns about your discharge, please ask. A staff member or volunteer will help you to your car.

Managing Pain at Home

Pain after an operation, injury, or medical procedure is normal and expected. The following recommendations will help you stay as comfortable as possible:

- Take your prescribed medications as ordered by your physician. Do not take more than prescribed.
- Take only the medications your doctor prescribes or recommends.
- Take pain medications with food to avoid an upset stomach.
- Do not drink alcohol or drive while using pain medications.
- If your pain worsens and is uncontrolled by pain medication, call your physician or return to the Emergency Center.

Recovery

An important part of your recovery is making sure you get the care you need to get better after you leave the hospital. A nurse, social worker, or discharge planner should help plan your follow-up care. If no one is assigned to help you with your discharge plan, tell your physician or nurse.

You will be given important directions about your follow-up care, including written instructions. The following tips provide you with the information you need for the best recovery possible.

Find Out About Your Condition

- Ask about your condition, how soon you should feel better, and the signs and symptoms you should watch for.
- Find out about your ability to do everyday activities, such as walking, climbing stairs, going to the bathroom, preparing meals, driving, returning to work, and other activities that are important to you.
- Find out how much help you will need during your recovery. For example, whether someone should be with you 24 hours a day.
- Write down any questions you have and ask them before you leave the hospital.

Before you leave, your nurse will talk with you about follow-up care, including medications, diet, and how to care for yourself at home. If you have questions or concerns about your discharge, please ask.

- Ask a family member or friend to be with you when discharge plans are being made, or to go through the discharge process with you. He or she can help get written instructions and ask questions.
- If you are not confident about how to care for yourself after leaving the hospital, or if you have doubts about getting the care you need at home, please speak up. Ask to speak to your nurse, a social worker, the discharge planner, or a charge nurse.

Find Out About New Medicines

- Ask for a list of all the medications you will be taking at home. The list should include all of your medicines, not just new ones started in the hospital. Check the list for accuracy. You or your physician should also share the list with anyone who is providing follow-up care.
- Ask for written directions about your medications. Ask if there are any foods and drinks—such as alcohol—that you should avoid.
- Tell your physicians, nurses, and pharmacists about all the medicines, vitamins and herbs you usually take. Ask if you should stop taking any of these with your new medicines.
- Ask about the side effects of your new medicines. Find out what you should do if you experience any side effects.

Find Out About Your Follow-Up Care

- Ask for directions about physical exercises that may be helpful. Ask your physician, nurse or physical therapist for written instructions.
- If you have a wound, ask for directions on how you should take care of it.
- If you need special equipment, make sure you know how to use it, where you can get it, and whether it is covered by your insurance, Medicare or other health plan.
- Ask about any tests you may need after you leave the hospital and who you should contact to get the results.
- Find out about any follow-up visits with your physician or other caregiver. Make sure you have transportation. Many cities provide transportation for the elderly or disabled.
- Review your insurance to find out what costs are covered and not covered after you are discharged (like medicines and equipment).
- If you need home care services, or if you need to stay in a nursing home or assisted living center for follow-up care, make sure the facility or service is covered by your insurance, Medicare or other health plan, and that it is licensed or accredited. The Joint Commission accredited organizations and programs are listed at www.qualitycheck.org.

Patient Responsibilities

Giving Information: You are responsible for providing accurate and complete information about your health and reporting changes in your condition.

Following Instructions: You are responsible for following the treatment plan recommended by your physicians, nurses, and other caregivers, and reporting the side effects of any treatment. If you refuse treatment or fail to follow directions from your physician or hospital personnel, please understand that you are responsible for your own actions.

Advance Directives

Advance medical directives are legal documents that allow you to give directions for your future medical care. As an individual and a patient, you have the right to accept or refuse treatment. An advance directive will help you protect your rights and communicate your choices if you become physically and mentally unable to do so.

There are three (3) types of advance directives:

Directive to Physicians, Families or Surrogates

Also known as a Living Will, this document records your wishes for withholding or withdrawing life-sustaining procedures. The Directive to Physicians must be signed, dated, and witnessed by qualified witnesses. If you would like more information about Living Wills, ask your nurse.

Medical Power of Attorney

This document allows you to name another person as your agent to make medical decisions for you, if you become unable to do so. A signed Medical Power of Attorney can prevent confusion by ensuring that your wishes are known.

Out-of-Hospital Do Not Resuscitate Order

If you do not wish to be resuscitated at your home or an out-of-hospital health care setting, you and your physician can complete this form.

Supportive Decision-Making Agreement

This agreement allows an adult with a physical or mental impairment that limits one or more major life activities to voluntarily enter into an agreement with a supporter to do a number of activities, including: (1) assistance in understanding responsibilities of adult's life decisions; and (2) assistance in collecting/obtaining information relevant to a given life decision regarding medical, psychological, financial, educational or treatment records for any individual.

Ethics Committee

Treatment decisions can be complex and difficult to make. For assistance or support, the Ethics Committee is available for consultation to help resolve ethical conflicts that develop related to patient treatment plans. An Ethics Specialist may be available at your hospital.

Confidentiality of Your Health Information

Memorial Hermann recognizes the importance of protecting patient privacy and has developed policies and procedures to maintain confidentiality of your health information. Memorial Hermann operates in compliance with the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), and other Federal and State statutes, which protect the security and confidentiality of patient health information on paper, in computers, or in oral communications. Except as specifically authorized by law, you have the right to determine the health information Memorial Hermann may release about you. Unless you request otherwise, your name is added to the hospital's patient directory when you are admitted. This allows you to receive telephone calls, flowers, mail, and visitors.

You also have the right to request that no health information be released. For patients who are minors, the parent or legal guardian has the authority to make these decisions.

Quality and Safety

Memorial Hermann works continuously to improve upon the quality and safety of the care we deliver by finding the critical interventions that protect patients from harm. Memorial Hermann employees and affiliated physicians undergo extensive training in methods and behaviors proven to improve safety and prevent harm. We are also catching and preventing critical omissions and errors before they can harm a patient by incorporating evidence-based medicine and nationally recognized risk-prevention processes. These practices ensure continuous preoccupation with failure to prevent adverse events and reinforce our commitment to resilience. They also allow us to learn from and address adverse events, if they were to occur. We continuously monitor and encourage reporting of events, including but not limited to Never Events, as defined by the National Quality Forum (qualityforum.org/Topics/SREs/List_of_SREs.aspx). It is our operating expectations and policy to complete comprehensive reviews and take the listed actions, identified by Leapfrog as national benchmark practices for reported potential NQF Never Events (leapfroggroup.org/influencing/never-events).

Your Role in Your Care

At Memorial Hermann, you play a vital role in making your care safe. Research shows that patients who take part in decisions about their health care are more likely to have better outcomes.

Speak Up

Memorial Hermann encourages patients and families to help us in our efforts to ensure patient safety. The Speak Up Program, sponsored by The Joint Commission, urges patients to get involved in their care by speaking up to their nurse, physician, case manager or any other team member if something does not seem right. It is better to address questions and concerns immediately and directly.

Speak up if you have questions or concerns, and if you do not understand, ask again. It is your body and you have a right to know.

- Your health is too important to worry about being embarrassed if you do not understand something that your physician, nurse, or other health care professional tells you.
- Do not be afraid to ask about safety. If you are having surgery, for example, ask your doctor to mark the area that is to be operated on so there is no confusion in the operating room.
- Do not be afraid to tell the nurse or the physician if you think you are about to receive the wrong medication.
- Do not hesitate to tell the health care professional if you think he or she has confused you with another patient.

Pay attention to the care you are receiving. Make sure you are getting the right treatments and medications by the right health care professionals. Do not assume anything.

- Tell your nurse or physician if something does not seem right.
- Expect health care workers to introduce themselves when they enter your room and look for their identification badges. A new mother, for example, should know the person to whom she is handing her baby. If you are unsure, ask.
- Notice whether your caregivers have washed their hands. Hand washing is the most important way to prevent the spread of infections. Do not be afraid to gently remind the physician or nurse to do this.
- Know what time of day you normally receive a medication. If it does not happen, bring this to the attention of your nurse or physician.
- Make sure your nurse or physician confirms your identity by checking your identification band or asking your name before he or she administers any medication or treatment.

Educate yourself about your diagnosis, the medical tests you are undergoing and your treatment plan.

- Ask your physician about the specialized training and experience that qualifies him or her to treat your illness, and be sure to ask the same questions of those physicians to whom he or she refers you.
- Gather information about your condition. Good sources include your doctor, your nurse, your library, respected websites and support groups.
- Write down important facts your physician tells you so that you can look for additional information later. And ask your physician whether he or she has any written information you can keep.
- Thoroughly read all medical forms and make sure you understand them before you sign anything. If you do not understand, ask your doctor or nurse to explain them.

- Make sure you are familiar with the operation of any equipment that is used in your care. If you will be using oxygen at home, do not smoke or allow anyone to smoke near you while oxygen is in use.

Ask a trusted family member or friend to be your advocate.

- Your advocate can ask questions that you may not think of while you are under stress.
- Ask this person to stay with you, even overnight, as a primary support when you are hospitalized. You will be able to rest more comfortably and your advocate can help make sure you get the right medications and treatments.
- Your advocate can also help remember answers to questions you have asked, and speak up for you if you cannot.
- Make sure your advocate understands your preferences for care and your wishes concerning resuscitation and life support.
- Review consents for treatment with your advocate before you sign them and make sure you both understand exactly what you are agreeing to.
- Make sure your advocate understands the type of care you will need when you get home. Your advocate should know what to look for if your condition is worse, and who to call for help.

Know what medications you take and why you take them. Medication errors are among the most common health care mistakes.

- Ask about the purpose of the medication and ask for written information about it, including brand and generic names. Also inquire about the side effects of the medication.
- If you do not recognize a medication, verify that it is for you. Ask about oral medications before swallowing, and read the contents of bags of intravenous (IV) fluids. If you're not well enough to do this, ask your advocate.

- If you are given an IV, ask the nurse how long it should take for the liquid to run out. Tell the nurse if it does not seem to be dripping properly (too fast or too slow).
- Whenever you receive a new medication, tell your physicians and nurses about the allergies you have or negative reactions, if any, you have had to medications in the past.
- If you are taking multiple medications, ask your physician or pharmacist whether it is safe to take those medications together.
This also holds true for vitamins, herbal supplements and over-the-counter drugs.
- Ask whether there are any foods, drinks or activities that you should avoid while taking these medications.
- Make sure you can read the handwriting on any prescriptions written by your physician. If you cannot read it, the pharmacist may not be able to either.
- Know who will be taking care of you, how long the treatment will last, and how you should feel.
- Understand that more tests or medications may not always be better. Ask your physician what a new test or medication is likely to achieve.
- Keep copies of your medical records from previous hospitalizations and share them with your health care team. This will give them a more complete picture of your health history.
- Do not be afraid to seek a second opinion. If you are unsure about the nature of your illness and the best treatment, consult one or two additional specialists. The more information you have about the options available to you, the more confident you will be in the decisions made.
- Ask to speak with others who have undergone the procedure you are considering. These individuals can help you prepare for the days and weeks ahead. They can also tell you what to expect and what worked best for them as they recovered.

Participate in all decisions about your treatment.

You are at the center of the health care team.

- You and your physician should agree on exactly what will be done during each step of your care.

Identification Bands

All patients must wear an identification band at all times from admission to discharge from the hospital. Patient safety guidelines require that staff members utilize two identifiers before administering medications or performing procedures. Identifiers such as your name, date of birth and medical record number are on the identification band; please do not remove it during your stay. Notify a staff member if an identification band is removed and not reapplied. Staff members will check your identification band to verify your name and patient number before administering medications or performing procedures. This practice is proven to help reduce medical errors.

You may be given a color-coded identification band to communicate important information to your health care team, such as patient-specific risk factors or special needs based on assessments, wishes, and medical status.

- Red indicates an allergy;
- Green indicates a latex allergy;
- Purple indicates a Do Not Resuscitate (DNR) order;
- Pink indicates a restricted extremity;
- Yellow indicates a fall risk;
- Orange indicates the parent of a pediatric patient; and
- White indicates a pediatric patient.

Calling Your Nurse

Each room is equipped with a nurse call system; please call a member of the nursing staff any time you need assistance. When you press the call button, the unit secretary or member of the nursing team will respond over the intercom or in person. For your safety, our bathrooms are equipped with emergency call systems.

Fall Prevention

Individuals in unfamiliar surroundings are at a greater risk of falling. Patients often fall because they are on medications that make them dizzy, they are weak and unsteady due to illness or medical procedures or because they have been sitting or lying down for too long. Staff members will assist you to take standard safety precautions during your stay.

- Remember to use the call button whenever you need assistance. When you press the button, tell the individual answering what you want and then wait for the assistance you require.
- Assist us in keeping a clean and clutter-free pathway to the bathroom.
- Keep the bed in the lowest position (closest to the floor) and the brakes on the bed locked at all times.

If your nurse determines that you are at an even greater risk of falling, you will be requested to assist in providing extra safety measures, including the following:

- Call for assistance whenever you need to get out of bed, go to the bathroom, retrieve items from the closet or drawers, or transfer to a chair or bedside commode.
- Keep the door to your room open at all times, except when someone is with you.
- Wear the non-skid footwear provided by your caregivers when you are out of the bed.
- Keep personal items located within reach.
- Leave a night light or bathroom light on during your stay.

- Bed side rails may be raised to assist in preventing you from falling. Do not try to get out of the bed by climbing around or over them—call for assistance.
- Leave the yellow identification band that identifies you to the caregiver team as a patient at risk of falling visible and intact during your stay.

Infection Prevention

Bacteria, viruses, and other infectious organisms can be found on the skin and in the saliva, urine, feces, and blood. Most germs will not harm you. However, there are some bacteria and viruses that can make you sick. Therefore, it is important to work together with your health care team to reduce the spread of infections.

Hand Hygiene

Handwashing is the single most important way to prevent the spread of disease. It is critical to wash your hands when they are visibly dirty, before eating, and after using the restroom. To effectively remove germs from your hands, follow these simple steps:

1. Wet hands with water, keeping hands lower than the elbows;
2. Apply hospital-approved soap or hand antiseptic. Liquid soap dispensers are available at every sink;
3. Use friction to clean between fingers, palms, backs of hands, wrists, forearms, under nails, and around jewelry for a minimum of 15 seconds;
4. Rinse hands with water and dry thoroughly with a disposable towel; and
5. Use a clean towel to turn off the faucet.

When your hands are not visibly dirty, an alcohol-based hand sanitizer is an appropriate means of hygiene. When decontaminating hands with sanitizer, apply the product to the palm of one hand and rub hands together, covering all surfaces of the hands and fingers until the hands are dry. Hand sanitizer dispensers are located throughout the hospital in the hallways, patient rooms, and recreational areas.

Cough Etiquette

Respiratory infections, such as the common cold and flu, are often spread from person to person when an individual coughs or sneezes. These germs can be spread through the air or by contaminated hands. To help prevent the transmission of respiratory infections, it is important to practice cough etiquette by:

- Covering your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing;
- Using tissues to contain respiratory secretions and disposing of them in the nearest waste receptacle after use; and
- Performing hand hygiene after having contact with respiratory secretions and contaminated objects/materials.

Isolation

There are some cases in which additional levels of protection are required to prevent the spread of disease. Contact isolation, the most common form of isolation precautions, is often utilized to prevent the spread of antibiotic-resistant bacteria. If you have a contagious infection or an organism that does not respond well to medication, you may be placed on isolation precautions. A sticker will be placed on your door to alert visitors and staff members that additional protection is required before entering your room. An isolation cart containing gowns, gloves, masks, and other required equipment will be available.

Medications

Home Medications

Do not bring any medications (prescription, over-the-counter, or illegal drugs) to the hospital. Instead, provide your nurse with a list of current medications you are taking, including dosage and schedule, to review with your physician. All medications you will need to take during your stay will be prescribed by your physician and administered by a trained professional. Some medications could interfere with tests or medications ordered during your treatment.

Pain Management

Memorial Hermann considers pain as a fifth vital sign and a critical driver of a patient's blood pressure, pulse, respiration, and temperature. When pain is controlled, patients tend to heal faster, feel better sooner, and get their strength back faster. While we may not be able to take all of your pain away, several methods of pain control, including medication and non-medication treatments, are available to patients.

Comfort Methods

Comfort methods may include a massage, hot or cold packs, positioning, splinting of an incision, use of electrical stimulation, relaxation, listening to music or tapes, meditation, positive thinking, and other activities that distract you from focusing on the pain.

Medication Administration

Our nursing staff gives pain medication in the following ways:

- Oral: Oral pain medications are taken by mouth in pill or liquid form. They may also include agents that you place under your tongue.
- Injection: An injection is a shot of medication usually given into a muscle.
- Intravenous: Medication may also be injected into a vein through an intravenous catheter.

- Skin: Skin patches containing pain medications may be applied to the skin for longer-term pain management.
- PCA Pump: Patient-controlled analgesia (PCA) pumps allow you to control timing and flow of your pain medication. When you begin to feel pain, you press a button to inject the pain medication through the IV tube placed in your vein.
- Spinal/Epidural: For women in labor, or for cesarean delivery and certain other surgical procedures, a combination of epidural and spinal pain medications may be used to control pain.

Please note: Oral pain medication may be routinely scheduled at set intervals or on an as-needed basis within specific time frames. It is important to request pain medication when you first begin to experience pain rather than waiting for pain to become moderate or severe.

Keeping Pain Under Control

Being prepared can help you keep your pain levels under control. Consider writing down your questions about pain and pain control before you see the physician or nurse and be sure to do the following:

- Talk to your nurses and physicians about pain control methods that have worked well for you in the past and those that did not work.
- Talk with your nurses and physicians about any concerns you have about your pain medication and about any allergies you have.
- Ask your physicians and nurses what to expect. For example: Will there be much pain? Where will it occur? How long is it likely to last?

- Take your pain medication or ask the nurse for pain medication when the pain starts. This is an important step in proper pain control.
- Take your pain medication before getting out of bed, walking or doing breathing exercises if these activities worsen your pain. It is harder to ease the pain once it has taken hold.

Remember, you have the right to have your pain appropriately assessed and managed.

Being prepared

can help you keep your pain levels under control. Consider writing down your questions about pain and pain control before you see the physician or nurse.

Communicating Your Pain

If your physician has ordered your pain medication to be administered on an as-needed basis, be sure to alert your nurse when you are experiencing pain. We ask that you help your health care team measure your pain by rating it on a scale of 0 to 10, with a “10” indicating the most severe pain, and “0” indicating no pain.

Reporting your pain as a number helps the physicians and nurses know how well your treatment is working and whether to make any changes. Remember, pain may signal concerns your physicians and nurses need to know about. Don’t automatically assume you need less pain medication just because your pain is under control.

Security Identification

All members of your health care team should wear name tag identification. Ask to see the name tag identification if it is not visible.

Your Medical Bill and Records

About Your Bill

As a patient receiving services at a Memorial Hermann campus, you are ultimately responsible for the charges associated with your treatment and care. We will send you a summary patient statement following your discharge. Detailed information about your charges is available by patient request. If you have a question or wish to request an itemized statement, please contact Patient Business Services/Customer Service by calling 713.338.5502.

Physician Bills

Bills from Memorial Hermann cover services provided by Memorial Hermann only. You will receive separate bills from your attending physician and any consulting physicians. As a reminder, certain radiology services, laboratory services, imaging services, and operating room procedures will include a bill from the physicians and a facility charge for the actual procedure.

Insured

Memorial Hermann will file insurance claims for most primary and secondary carriers. We will also verify your benefits and request authorization for services according to your insurance plan's requirements. You can help maximize your benefits by:

- Familiarizing yourself with the terms of your insurance plan's coverage and any policy limitations.
- Informing us by contacting our Business Office whenever your insurance carrier or coverage changes.
- Reviewing all correspondence from your insurance company, including explanations of benefits as well as any other insurance correspondence that may indicate a problem in processing your hospital or physician charges.

Most patients' insurance companies receive a bill from Memorial Hermann every 15 days. The exceptions are Medicare, Medicaid, the Department of Assistive and Rehabilitation Services (DARS), and Workers' Compensation. Medicare and Medicaid receive a bill for all the services given once the patient is discharged from inpatient care. Billing for DARS and Workers' Compensation is every 30 days. Contact Patient Business Services at 713.338.5502 or toll-free at 1.800.526.2121 if you need a copy of a bill submitted to the insurance company or other third-party payer.

If your insurance company delays payment for more than 60 days, Memorial Hermann may be required to seek payment directly from you.

Uninsured

For elective medical treatment, you and/or your physician's office should contact our Pre-Service Center at 832.658.6455 at least five days in advance of treatment to request a quote. Our business office representatives will collect the necessary information to provide you with a quote for the treatment you request and assist with options for payment. To prevent delays in your desired treatment date for elective procedures, please ensure that you have made arrangements with the business office regarding your financial obligations.

For emergency medical treatment, business office representatives will meet with you to provide information about options to help you meet your financial obligations. Payment options for treatment resulting from a medical emergency may include government funding for Texas residents, Crime Victims assistance, Medicare, counseling on continuation of benefits (COBRA), and/or cash pay quotes. Your business office representative will provide you with information on the Harris County Gold Card program, if you are a Harris County resident and on the Memorial Hermann Financial Assistance Policy.
